

About Peter S. Moskowitz, MD

Peter S. Moskowitz, MD is certified career and life coach recognized as an expert in the field of physician wellness and career renewal. Dr. Moskowitz is also a Clinical Professor of Radiology at the Stanford University School of Medicine and is a staff radiologist at the Lucille Packard Children's Hospital at Stanford. He is also the founder and director of the Center for Professional and Personal Renewal, which, since 1998, has helped hundreds of physicians nationwide beat career burnout, manage stress, plan and complete career transitions, and manage other career and life planning issues. Dr. Moskowitz's coaching has also improved the effectiveness of numerous medical practices, hospital staffs, and clinics.

Clinical Background

Dr. Moskowitz has been a practicing diagnostic radiologist since 1975. He is presently a clinical professor of Radiology at the Stanford University School of Medicine and a staff radiologist at the Lucille Packard Children's Hospital at Stanford. Previously, Dr. Moskowitz held an appointment as an Assistant Professor of Radiology and Pediatrics at Stanford. He was also a Research Scholar of the James Picker Foundation and the recipient of the Agnes Axtell Moule Faculty Scholar Award. Before his affiliation with Stanford, Dr. Moskowitz served as an Assistant Clinical Professor of Radiology at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, and he spent 18 years in a hospital-based private practice in San Jose, California.

For Dr. Moskowitz's academic CV including his published medical articles, click here.

Coaching Background

Dr. Moskowitz trained and was certified in Professional and Organizational Coaching in 1998 at the prestigious Hudson Institute of Santa Barbara. Since that time, he has worked with over one hundred individual physician clients over a thousand physicians and other health professionals in group settings such as his workshops and seminars. Dr. Moskowitz serves on the editorial board of the Society for Professional Well-Being and is a member of the American Counseling Association and the Professional Coaches and Mentors Association.

Dr. Moskowitz is the co-author of Medical Practice Divorce (AMA Press, 2001), a primer on medical practice transitions, author of five chapters in other books, author or co-author of more than 35 scientific publications, and a frequent contributor to numerous healthcare journals and magazines on topics relevant to career and life management.

For Dr. Moskowitz's coaching CV including his published coaching articles, click here.